

I strongly oppose any limitation on the ability of satellite radio to provide traffic, weather and any other content. As a paying satellite radio listener, I have found that satellite radio provides content and quality not currently available on free over-the-air radio. I am a former communications attorney and I do understand these issues. Unfortunately, the FCC went from one extreme to the other in its anti-monopoly policy, and now every broadcast station is virtually identical to every other. Fortunately satellite radio is available as an option to those of us willing to pay for quality programming -- if the FCC doesn't allow the NAB to dictate the programming I am allowed to pay for. I respectfully urge the FCC to reject NAB's petition 04-160 and I heartily support XM Radio's ability to provide excellent, diverse and useful programming which is NOT AVAILABLE on broadcast radio.

Sincerely,

Susan Rosenau, Esq.
